Description

TN45 Magic Valley is a short grass strip in the beautiful Sequatchie Valley. It's a one way in/out strip with an uphill landing and downhill takeoff. Do not land here if you're not comfortable with a 600' strip.

There are high tension power lines about 1,800 west of the runway running in a generally NE/SW direction. They can be difficult to see.

**This is a STOL runway only. ** The grass is cut regularly but may not be. There may or may not be equipment, farm animals, or paragliders training. A small windsock is on field that may or may not be knocked over lol.

Real-time weather can be found here:

Known as The Hang Gliding Capital of the East, people come visit from all of the world to paraglide and hang glide. Magic Valley Airport hosts a paragliding training hill where students can take their first flights from a lower elevation launch before heading up the mountain to the world class launches across the Sequatchie Valley.
